TITUSVILLE CHEMICAL WORKS.—This enterprise, repeatedly referred to in our columns, may now be said to have been fairly inaugurated, the company having yesterday let their contracts for the construction of the buildings, and perfected all necessary arrangements for the rapid prosecution of the work. Messrs. Smith & Hubert, of Titusville, are the contractors. The buildings will consist of three separate structures, two of which will be 48x216 feet and 56 feet high, and the third a one-story frame, 30x206 feet. In addition to these there will be the usual offices, stables, boiler house, engine room, etc. The contractors will break ground to-day, on the site selected at the corner of the old site, recently purchased of the Kora. The cost of the works will be about $350,000, and should the early results of the enterprise fulfill the expectations of the company, the investment will be largely increased. The company are represented here by Mr. Robert Kenna, of Lodi, N. J., where the same parties are extensively engaged in the same manufacture. They have already reduced the price of acid 23 per cent. to our refiners, supplying them from the Lodi Works, and will continue to furnish the market from that point till the Titusville Works are in operation.

TROUBLE IN WARREN COUNTY.—The Titusville Journal advocates the erection of new county buildings for Warren county, provided they be located at Titusville. The Journal says more business is transacted at Titusville in a single day than at Warren in six. The income taxes reported from Titusville are about $65,000 in excess of those from Warren, and the county taxes over $30,000 more. Moreover, Titusville is destined to become a great railroad center, convenient of access from all parts of the country. Finally, says the Journal:

"To arrive at this matter in a practical way, let us introduce into the legislature to-day the question of a change of the county seat to a vote of the people of Warren county. We do not feel at all fearful of the result."

Now, here is a bit of "woriment" for the Warrenites. Hitherto they have been so intent on defeating our new county project that they have ignored the possibility of any domestic contentions respecting the removal of the county seat. We do not anticipate any immediate contest, but the agitation has commenced, and the question will probably become a lively issue in the local elections from this time forward. Perhaps the citizens of Warren will find it a harder struggle to retain the county seat than they ever experienced in defeating the Titusville new county. There is great force in the Journal's claims for Titusville, and the proposition to pass a bill and submit it to the popular vote is eminently fair. Of course that time will arrive. Meanwhile let Titusville strengthen her ties with Titusville by aiding the construction of a new road, and—see what comes of it!

OPERA HOUSE—FIRST NIGHT.—The sale of reserved seats for the opening night of the Opera House commenced yesterday and was continued during the day. The result was unprecedented. The entire parquet and parquet circle, comprising about 600 seats, were sold before noon, and if the capacity of the house had been twice as large it is believed it would scarcely have accommodated the demand. The family, or dress circle, was also sold in part, but there still remains a large number of very desirable seats, and the sale of tickets will be resumed to-morrow. The price will be the same as for the opening night, $1.00 and $1.50, after which the popular prices will be adopted, viz: $1.00 for reserved seats; 75 and 50 cents for other parts of the house.

THE PRESSURE ON OUR ADVERTISING COLUMNS is increasing daily, but we hope after the expiration of the holidays it will be diminished. The circulation of the HERALD is steadily advancing, not only at home, but in all parts of the old region. For the last week we have regularly added to our daily edition, but the cry is "We can't get the HERALD," now agents exhausted, news boys haven't enough on the cars, none left at the counting room. We will, all this "means business," and is a gratifying indication that our unremitting exertions to make a valuable and reliable newspaper are duly appreciated. Next!

THE HYDETOWN HOMICIDE.—We stated on Monday that a warrant had been issued by Justice Stone for the arrest of George Turner, who shot Rowland Knighting at Hydetown. Turner had consented himself to the Sheriff at Meadville, and was released on his recognizance, but last evening telegraphed to Chief of Police Rouse that he would arrive here on this morning's train. The examination will be held before Justice Stone to-day at 2 o'clock, if a suitable room can be procured. Officer Miller was dispatched to Hydetown last evening to subpoena witnesses.

THE RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—A condition of the boy William Miller, who accidentally fell under the cars at the long switch of the O. & C. R. R. last Tuesday, was slightly improved last evening. Dr. Dunigan, his attending physician, thinks he may live till to-day, when if the symptoms are favorable, amputation at the upper portion of the left thigh will be performed. In any event the injury sustained by either limb, is insufficient to endanger life, and he might hope are entertained of his recovery.

THE REFINING BUSINESS.—In our statistical article on the refining business of Titusville, published yesterday, the capacity of McFarland & Co.'s works was given at 12,000 (instead of 1,200) barrels per day. The error, however, must have been apparent to the most casual reader. The following recapitulation of the statistics should properly have been appended:

Number of Refineries..... 12
Capacity of stills (bbls)..... 12,135
Per day..... 2,856
Total amount of tankage (bbls)..... 71,757
Total value of works..... $345,000

GOUGH—Gough lectures in the new Opera House, Dec. 26th. His subject is "Eloquence and Oratory," a new lecture, and every where spoken of with best effect. There will be a lively demand for reserved seats.

The New Marshall Opera House.

GRAND OPENING.

The new Marshall Opera House rapidly approaches completion, and will be duly opened to the public with a dramatic entertainment of the first-class on Monday evening next as duly announced in these columns. It is, therefore, not premature to present in some detail a description of the interior of this beautiful temple of the drama.

EVERY THING THAT FANCY PAINTED IT. Having visited it, and examined its interior arrangements, the plan of the architect and the work and workmanship of the mechanics and artists, we can safely promise that it fully comes up to the popular expectation, in all the elements of comfort and safety, substantial comfort and elegant adornment which the most critical or fastidious could require.

LOCATION AND ENTRANCE. For the information of "outsiders," we may state that the Opera House forms the west section or two-fifths of the grand and imposing Marshall Hotel Block, situated on Spring street, nearly opposite the Second National Bank. It occupies the second, third, and fourth stories of this splendid structure and the entrance is on Spring street, by a broad staircase nine feet wide. On the left of the first landing is the ticket office, and at the right are the spacious entrances, through iron doors, to the parquette. There is also a COMMUNICATION with this landing near the ticket office with the principal hall of the hotel, and at the rear of the landing are staircases leading to the galleries. The AUDITORIUM consists of the parquette, the dress circle, the family circle, and the balconies or the galleries, and four proscenium boxes, two on either side of the stage, which is in the rear part. There are two flights of inside stairs connecting the dress circle with the galleries.

THE CHILING is arched and in the centre is a swelling dome sixteen feet in diameter, which rises into a couple above the roof. The doors of the parquette and galleries rise from front to rear on all sides, and each gallery is supported with solid iron pillars.

THE TOTAL HEIGHT of ceiling from floor of parquette to base of dome, is thirty-six and a half feet. The auditorium is sixty-five feet long, by fifty-one feet wide. There is one aisle on each side and three side and rear aisles, at convenient distances, connecting with the outer passages.

The parquette or orchestra circle, is furnished with the elegant patent opera chairs, and the seats in the parquette and dress circle are handsomely painted, grained, and upholstered.

THE SEATING CAPACITY of the hall may be estimated as follows: Parquette, three hundred; dress circle, four hundred; family circle, three hundred; gallery three hundred; on occasion the house will accommodate an audience of fifteen hundred persons. The private boxes are of ample proportions.

THE STAGE has a depth of forty-five feet and a width of fifty-one feet; the foot-lights are depressed below the line of vision; the orchestra is eighteen feet long by seven feet wide. There are four dressing rooms in the rear of the stage, and dressing rooms also below the stage. The drop curtain is thirty feet wide by twenty-five feet in length. The wood work is painted and frescoed, decorated and gilded, embellished with harmonious and rich coloring, and with designs artistic and ornamental in a superior degree. The GALLERIES are circled with lights, seven brackets to each, with three burners each in crystal globes, with similar lights in front of the boxes, efficient for all the purposes of general illumination, and the least is diffused from registers on each side of the parquette and on the stage. The landing and aisles are covered with matting and the boxes elegantly carpeted and curtained.

DECORATIONS. The ceiling is richly frescoed in panels, the ground being in imitation of damask, bordered with gold moldings, the walls of the gallery are also paneled in fresco. Under the ceiling and above the arch is some graceful scroll work in the centre of which are figured by the cunning hand of the artist, beautiful symbolic figures of

MUSIC AND LOVE, and beneath the arch that spans the stage is represented the national emblem in fresco, while above it the bust of KING LEON. In stucco, encircled with splendid scroll work. On the walls, on either side of the stage appear a group, or pair of mythological figures in the Pompanian style. The face of the balconies are paneled with gilt moldings and ornaments of Cupids, and heads in stucco relief finished in white and gilt. The boxes are decorated with stucco ornaments in gilt and at the top are gilt eagles.

THE DOME in the centre is frescoed in panels in Barocco style and in each of the four panels are classical figures of life size, representing Music, Comedy, Tragedy, Poetry—Music with lily, Comedy with light feet lifted in the dance, and with trumphet in hand, Tragedy with her mask and sword, and Poetry with her scroll—each so naturally wrought—

"That one almost says the image thought." THE DROP CURTAIN represents the Straits of Messina, a scene in Italy. On the right of the placid water rises the ancient ruin of a Roman castle, now called St. Salvador, with marble steps mounting to terrace and battlement, and with Latin barges, moored at the base of the ascent; on the opposite side Cleopatra's temple, the myrtle clasping its columns, and the columned in the dim distance the outlines of the tower, the green and blue of earth and water, and the gold and purple of the sky. The drapery of the piece is a remarkably correct in drawing and rich in coloring. The genius of the artist has wrought upon the canvas not a senescent or passionate scene, but one of rare and tranquil loveliness.

We can hardly speak in too strong terms of praise and admiration of the architectural decorations of the new Marshall Opera House, wrought by the hand of that accomplished and gifted architectural decorator and artist in fresco and scenographer,

JAMES BERRA, the leading artist, who has executed the decorations, again, and figures we have described in this column, and imperfect manner. Educated to his beautiful and arduous art in the best Italian schools—in Milan—a thousand creations, and a score of theatres, churches, halls and residences in our own country he has illustrated his proficiency in; and Mr. A. Talamo, of our city, who had the contract for the painting and fresco work in this hall, was fortunate in securing the services of

The stage, as we have before stated, is of liberal dimensions, nearly fifty feet square, with

"GREEN ROOM" below, and with dressing rooms above and below, ample for the accommodation of the actors, coryphæus of ballet, and the corps of assistants of all grades. The stage arrangements, in a mechanical point of view, embrace all the necessary working traps and machinery found in first-class theatres, and the latest improvements for the shifting of scenery with celerity and ease. The sets of scenery are adapted to nearly all the varieties of dramatic representation, so essential for scenic effect, to complete the illusion of the spectator, and even idealize the play or part to the wondrous imagination of the truly inspired actor.

THE INTERIOR SCENES consist of two fancy chambers, two plain dining, palace, kitchen, two prisons, two oak chambers, rustic arch, with all the necessary set doors, windows, fire places, wings, etc.

The exterior scenes comprise garden, landscape, rocky pass, street, farm house, cut woods, harbor, with the necessary houses, cottages, walls, balustrades, bridges, rocks, arbors, statues, vases, waters, boats, etc.

The drop curtain is of fine material with three sets of borders, drapery, sky, etc.

The stage scenery and machinery was constructed under the personal supervision of James E. Fleming, from the Eastern theatres, who has enjoyed an experience of some twenty years in this business, and for the past seven years has been connected in this capacity with the Academy of Music of Cleveland, Ohio.

It is worthy of mention that the Opera House is provided with every needful appliance in case of ACCIDENT OR FIRE. In the attic is built a tank of the capacity of one hundred and forty barrels, with two lines of rubber hose attached, communicating with the stage and parquette circle, and we have before remarked that the entrance way and stair-case is nine feet wide, admitting of easy ingress and egress in the most expeditious manner, and the greatest facility.

MR. JAMES PARSHALL, of Titusville, the proprietor, has exhibited great enterprise, liberality and munificence in erecting so elegant an Opera House, in connection with his grand hotel in our city. Titusville and the whole old region, of which it is the chief commercial city, may well take pride, as it can challenge comparison with it in any part of the United States, outside the large cities.

There is no manner of doubt that the investment will be a paying and highly remunerative one. The lessees of the Opera House,

MCMURDO, MATTHEWS & SMITH, have already made arrangements for a most brilliant series of entertainments, as we have previously announced, opening next Monday evening with SHERRY'S NEW YORK THEATRE, incomparably the best troupe that travels. And with entertainments of a select and popular character, a cordial and generous response is always given in our city.

THE COST of the Marshall Opera House will not fall short of $400,000. The work of finishing it has progressed rapidly and steadily for several years past, under the careful and judicious supervision of Mr. H. S. Bates, the General Superintendent. The names of the other parties, to whom credit is due for proficiency in their several departments, are J. M. Blackburn, Cleveland, architect; J. Zimmerman, master builder; the plumbing and gas fitting was performed by G. L. Hubbard of our city; the gas fixtures were made by special order in New York city, the painting and fresco work executed by A. Talamo, the stucco work by Mr. Herkommer, of Cleveland.

And this beautiful hall will be thrown open to the public for the first time, on Monday evening next, the threshold of the holidays. It will, no doubt, present a gratifying and brilliant spectacle, radiant with light, resounding with orchestral music, and filled from parquette to balcony with a representative audience from the whole old region, all animated with a common feeling of satisfaction and gratulation.

The enterprising lessees are very fortunate in having secured the services of Sherry's New York Theatre to dedicate the house, and doubly fortunate that this excellent company are to present on that occasion "Rip Van Winkle, or the Sleep of Twenty Years," dramatized from the charming legend of Washington Irving, and illustrated with equal genius and fidelity to nature by Jefferson and Camer.

And what more appropriate sentiment can we of Titusville offer to Mr. Parshall for this Opera House, this gem and ornament of our city, than the memorable one so often beaming from the eye, and flowing from the lips of dear Rip Van Winkle: "I'm very glad to see you, your family. May you live long and prosper."
